

PRONOUNCE PEREMYSL AS IT IS SPELLED

WASHINGTON, March 24.—It was said at the Russian Embassy to-day that Peremysl, the new name of Przemyśl, is pronounced in English just about as it is spelled. The new name would sound like this: Peremysl, with the accent on the first syllable. It was said that Peremysl is merely the Russian for the Polish "Przemysl," but officials at Washington, without insisting on neutrality, are willing to admit that it has improved in some ways under Russian influence.

It was stated at the embassy that the new name of Przemyśl as given in some of the morning papers is incorrect. It is Peremysl, not "Peremysl."

The fighting has advanced within 200 yards of the Russian trenches and having exhausted their reserves withdrew at 9 o'clock in the morning. The field was covered with Austrian dead and wounded.

The Thirty-ninth Infantry Division renewed the attack, and unimpaired of the barbed wire entanglements threw themselves forward. The attack was unopposed in the trenches. The Russians were stationed on Stankowa Heights and this position changed hands three times during the day. The last change took place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The Russians captured and held the hill.

Troops Landed on Gallipoli Peninsula Now Threaten Dardanelles Batteries From Rear—Fleet, Awaiting Reinforcements, Renews Bombardment.

LONDON, March 24.—A despatch from Athens to the Daily Express says that a force of allied troops was landed on the Peninsula of Gallipoli from transports in the Gulf of Saros yesterday and that a joint land and sea attack will be undertaken as soon as reinforcements for the fleet arrive.

The bombardment of the strait defences was resumed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, another despatch says. Mine sweepers were accompanied by warships and the attack lasted several hours, until it was interrupted by a fog. The fog lifted at 10 o'clock and operations to be continued.

A despatch from Petrograd says the Congress of Representatives of the Nobility in its annual session passed the following resolution today:

ALLIES BEAT BACK GERMAN ASSAULTS

Hold Positions Near Arras Taken After Long and Costly Struggle.

PARIS, March 24.—The Germans tried once more today to win back the important positions at Notre Dame de Lorette, north of Arras, which the Allies captured recently after a long struggle.

Two attacks on the great spur at that place were completely repulsed. A German offensive in Champagne against a field fort at Beaulieu, that was checked almost before it was started, is the only other feature of the following communique issued to-night by the French War Office.

North of Arras the Germans attempted two attacks against the spur of Notre Dame de Lorette on the night of March 23-24. The repulse of the enemy was complete.

Berlin Also Announces Bombardment of Town on Baltic Coast.

BERLIN, via wireless to Saville, L. I., March 24.—Army Headquarters announced to-day the repulse by the Germans of Allied troops in the Forest of La Piere and near Hadonvillers. The statement of operations was as follows:

In Champagne there were only artillery duels. In the forest of La Piere, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, the enemy attempted to win back ground gained by the Germans but was repulsed. New attacks by the enemy northwest of Hadonvillers, and on Reichshausen, were checked down under the German fire. Fighting is in progress at Hartmannswillerkopf.

WOMEN TO FORE IN JAPAN'S ELECTION

Other Innovations Seen in Cabinet's Desperate Fight for Control.

TOKYO, March 25.—A general election to choose a new House of Representatives was held to-day throughout Japan. The Emperor dissolved the last house on December 25 after it had refused to ratify the Okuma Cabinet's military programme, which included an increase of the army by two divisions.

The campaign has been the most vigorous ever fought in Japan, the participation of women in the canvassing having been one of the innovations. Premier Okuma made a speechmaking tour on a special train, and in general a Keioei appeal. The reason of the election was made than ever before, indicating a growth in democracy.

The results of the election are not yet known, but late forecasts indicated a probability that the Independent representation would be increased from twelve to forty members giving this group the balance of power.

WANTS WORKERS TO FIX FOREIGN POLICY

Dr. Liebknecht Urges General Supervision of International Relations.

Socialist leaders here have received a copy of the speech of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, leader of the German socialists, in the Prussian Diet on February 8, in which he asserted that the machinations of powerful international financiers brought on the European war, and that, therefore, the working class should more than ever demand popular supervision of foreign policy and politics. A summary of which was published in the cable dispatches of The Sun. Dr. Liebknecht said: "Never was there a more glaring contrast between the heavy responsibilities of the community and the privileged character of the State and the administration in Prussia. The general duties of the State and the administration make the right of common justice a mere side issue. In the half-absolutism, the secret diplomacy and in the general character of the administration, a catch sight of a leading cause for the war, which to all intents and purposes is international-capitalism."
